Keep those safe
that matter most...

Alarms, Guards & Patrol,
Doing it all since 1972!

Bakersfield, CA – January 9, 2019 - M&S Security Services is a security firm that's been known to provide some of the best security solutions for their commercial and residential clients in California. The firm specializes in three core areas which include alarm systems, guard and patrol services where they've been fortunate to deliver highly functional services, rendering them the go-to company for reliable security services. With offices in Taft and Bakersfield, they reach dozens of clients, and this has seen their services become readily accessible. Additionally, their years of hands-on experiences in the security business have seen them soar to greater heights making them a trustworthy solution for all security needs.

Speaking about the customers they work with, the Company Spokesperson said, "Since our market entrance in 1972, we've had the great opportunity to work with dozens of clients who originate from different niche segments. Our ability to deliver beyond the customer's expectations allows us to add more clients to our portfolio by the day, and this never grows old for us. So far, we've partnered on various security projects with churches, agri-businesses, small businesses and government entities among others. To us, every client is worth the trouble, and we employ a customer-centric approach in all our projects to ensure that we meet every security concern that a particular client might have. No call goes unanswered with us, and you can trust that you're in professional hands when you partner with us."

M&S Security Services has been offering video surveillance systems in Bakersfield for decades now, and they've been successful at doing so. Video surveillance systems play a crucial role in a business premise or home, and this has been the basis of their services that ensure every security concern is addressed as it relates to surveillance in a particular premise. Focused on providing superior solutions, they've adopted high-tech surveillance systems that provide property owners with modern features for their security needs. Their surveillance systems are suitable for different situations and through detailed consultation with the company, one can be sure to find the right surveillance system for their space.

Talking further about their security services, the Company Spokesperson said, "The field of security is a broad one and one that needs the guidance of a professional for you to achieve a solid security system. Different spaces and clients call for varying security systems, and this is where we come in. Right from the time you get a hold of us, we seek to understand your specific needs so as to give you a solution that will see you smiling at the end of the day."

M&S Security Services' ability to deliver high-end solutions has seen them become one of the most trusted security guard companies in Bakersfield. Featuring a team of well-experienced security professionals, the company has been able to provide innovative security guard solutions that have left their clientele happy on all fronts. Whether it's a residential or commercial setting, one can always trust that M&S Security Services will live up to the challenge.
